Unit Selection FAQ's

How many units do I take?

Most students take 3 or 4 different subjects (called "Units" at Murdoch). Each unit is worth 3 credit points each.

Full-time study load is between 9 and 12 credit points per semester. The maximum full-time study load for an academic semester is 12 points. If you wish to be enrolled in more than 12 credit points, this is called "over-enrolment" for which special approval and additional charges of tuition fees apply.

It is recommended you speak to your home university to see how many units you should complete and how this will be accredited back to your degree.

When do I select my units?

You should discuss what units you should take in your semester abroad with your home institution as soon as possible. Be sure to ask your Academic Chair or Faculty Advisor if there are any credit approval/transfer forms at your home university which must be completed.

You can check out our unit options at any time from the Unit section of our online Handbook.

At any time, our Study Abroad Advisors can liaise with you regarding unit available, simply email studyabroad@murdoch.edu.au

How do I find units?

To assist you in choosing your units, please reference our Online Handbook of units - <http://print.handbook.murdoch.edu.au/units/>

There are a few important points to note in using this website:

1. Units are listed in unit code order and organised under the different Schools of Study.
 - For example, all "Business" units are grouped under the prefix of "BUS"
2. Be sure to check the semester in which the units are offered. On the above link, in the "Enrolment Options" section you can filter by "Teaching Period"
 - Use "S1" for Semester 1 which is February to June
 - Use "S2" for Semester 2 which is July to November
3. Check the campus at which the unit is offered. The vast majority of units are offered at the main Perth campus. Also in the "Enrolment Options" section of the above link you can set the "Location" filter to "Murdoch".
4. Check the level of the unit.
 - 100 level units = 1st year units
 - 200 level units = 2nd year units
 - 300 level units = 3rd year units
 - 400 level units = 4th year units
 - 500 level units and onwards = Graduate units
5. Read the unit descriptions - do you meet the pre-requisites?
 - If the unit has pre-requisites you will need to demonstrate how you meet these requirements. While your academic record usually gives a good indication of this, in some cases you may have to supply descriptions of the units you have completed at your home university.

- If you do not meet Murdoch's prerequisites, you should choose an alternative unit.

How do I submit my selections?

Study Abroad & Exchange students cannot enrol themselves. Your enrolment is handled manually by our International Student Mobility Officer (INbound).

It is preferred that you simply scan and attach this completed form to an email, sending it to studyabroad@murdoch.edu.au

Alternatively, you can send an email with the information on the front of this form in the body of the email to the same address.

When will I get confirmation of my selections?

As soon as we receive your unit selection worksheet or information, we will immediately start to work on your enrolment. Our Student Mobility Officer will be in touch with you and confirm your enrolment via email.

Students cannot be officially enrolled into their selected units until they have formally accepted their Offer, and in the case of Study Abroad students, paid your tuition fees.

Can I change my selection?

Yes, you may change your selection at any time, even after you arrive and later during Orientation Week and Week 1 of classes. Simply email studyabroad@murdoch.edu.au to amend your selections.
